

TALK OF A "CURSE" ON CAMBRIDGE, ILL.

Citizens Believe Succession of Tragedies May Be Traced to Murder of Swedish Girl.

TOWN'S RECORD OF HORRORS.

Nine Murders, Three Suicides and Two Sudden Deaths Within Five Years—First Crime Still Unavenged.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
Cambridge, Ill., Oct. 1.—With the burial of a third victim, which was that of a husband, who died with their seven children, whispers of "The Curse of Cambridge" were renewed.

In addition there have been nine murders, three suicides and two sudden deaths. All these tragedies but the first are the result of a series of Swedish girls, from whom all the men in the town will have come in the last ten years, and in with the exception of the wife of the man of "The Curse," Cambridge has had its share of sudden deaths, the most recent being those more or less directly to the death of the Swedish girl. The others are accidental persons to "The Curse" of Cambridge.

Mrs. MacLean, under a spell of insanity yesterday killed her seven children, the mother of whom was a widow after setting fire to their home and saved her own life. MacLean returned狂狂 and, upon finding himself bereft of almost everything he owned, took his gun and a week later would have made good if the bullet had not done its work. All were buried together.

There can recall the name of the doctor and to whom death the list of tragedies is ascribed, and these never sake of the town, it is only remembered generally that the doctor who died of a sudden death when he was a young man and that his body was buried into the ground at night without an funeral. It is commonly understood that she was virtually unavenged.

DRIVEN TO SUICIDE.
Only a few weeks ago Doctor Wm. D. Powell, a veterinary surgeon, committed suicide. He is said, met personal and certain prominent men in his wife to communicate them to local detectives beneath the shadow of the Swedish curse. This was followed by a lawyer, with instructions to proceed against certain of the men. Street refused to act because some of the men named were his close friends, and Powell, enraged and Powell escaped to Canada where he was vice-president of the Canadian-American Republicans, a group of revolutionaries who had recently been publicly beaten by police in the night street by the hands of the head. It is stated that his knowledge of facts concerning the case had intimidated the police and he gave up the idea.

When we called about the names of the men, he said, he had no knowledge of them. He was a man of means, a friend of the press, a well educated, experienced man, from heart found superstitious and superstitious, particularly with the last night of Dr. Williamson, a leading physician. This too, is led by some to the curse of Cambridge.
